ESL Warm-up Activity

To set the tone for the 7 Wonders of the World ESL Expedition lesson, begin by displaying images of each wonder and asking students to describe what they see using descriptive adjectives. For example, "What adjectives would you use to describe the Great Wall of China?" This will not only engage students but also introduce them to relevant vocabulary and encourage them to think critically about the subject matter.

Main ESL Lesson Activities

Vocabulary Activity: Wonder Descriptions

In pairs, have students select a wonder of the world and write a detailed description of it using as much descriptive vocabulary as possible. Encourage them to use adjectives, similes, and metaphors to paint a vivid picture. Afterward, each pair presents their description to the class for feedback and discussion.

Listening Exercise: Wonders Podcast

Assign students a short podcast episode about one of the wonders of the world. After listening, they discuss what they found most interesting in small groups before sharing their thoughts with the class.

Roleplay Activity: Tour Guides

Divide the class into groups where each group roleplays as tour guides for different wonders of the world. Each group prepares a short tour presentation including historical facts and interesting anecdotes about their chosen wonder. This allows students to practice speaking and presentation skills while learning about various wonders.

Reading and Writing Task: Comparison Essay

Ask students to compare two different wonders of the world in a short essay. They can discuss similarities, differences, historical significance, or modern-day relevance. Encourage peer evaluation and group discussions for better comprehension and analytical thinking.

ESL Homework Assignment

For homework, students can choose one of the wonders of the world that they find most intriguing and conduct further research. They can then prepare a short presentation or write a report highlighting key facts, historical significance, and their personal impressions. Additionally, they could practice their writing skills by drafting a creative piece inspired by their chosen wonder – whether it's a poem, short story, or descriptive essay. This assignment aims to reinforce the lesson content while fostering independent exploration and expression.
