Pair up the students and have them take turns describing each other's physical appearance without showing themselves. They should focus on details like height, build, complexion, and hair length. The listener then tries to draw a picture based solely on the description given. This activity not only sets the tone for the lesson but also encourages students to use descriptive vocabulary in a practical context.

Main ESL Lesson Activities

Vocabulary Activity: Describing Celebrity Look-alikes

Pair up the students and provide them with pictures of celebrities. Each student describes their assigned celebrity's physical appearance to their partner, who then guesses the celebrity being described. This activity encourages the use of descriptive language and prompts discussions about famous people's appearances.

Listening Exercise: Guess Who?

Prepare a set of audio recordings where students describe someone's physical appearance without revealing their identity. Students listen to the descriptions and try to match them with pictures of the individuals being described. This activity develops listening skills while reinforcing vocabulary related to physical appearance.

Roleplay Scenario: Fashion Show Critique

Organize a roleplay scenario where students take on different roles such as fashion designers, models, and fashion critics. They engage in discussions about physical appearance in relation to fashion, using descriptive language to critique each other's outfits, hairstyles, or overall looks.

Reading and Writing Task: Create a Character Profile

Provide students with short stories or book excerpts featuring various characters. Assign them the task of writing detailed character profiles that include physical appearance descriptions based on the provided text. Encourage peer review and discussion of different interpretations within group settings for a comprehensive approach.

ESL Homework Assignment

Encourage students to compile a list of physical traits in people they encounter and create brief descriptions based on these observations. Additionally, they can write short paragraphs or stories that emphasize the physical appearance of the characters involved. This homework assignment reinforces the lesson's vocabulary and encourages students to practice descriptive writing, further solidifying their understanding of physical appearance-related terms and expressions.
