ESL Warm-up Activity

To kick off the lesson, start with a visual warm-up activity. Show a series of before and after photos featuring individuals who have undergone plastic surgery or cosmetic procedures. Ask the students to discuss in pairs or small groups what they notice about each image, using adjectives to describe the changes. This activity will not only engage students visually but also encourage them to start thinking and using vocabulary related to plastic surgery in a thought-provoking manner. It sets the tone for discussing aesthetic perceptions and opens up opportunities for language exploration within the context of plastic surgery.

Main ESL Lesson Activities

Vocabulary Activity: Match the Term

To reinforce the vocabulary, prepare a set of flashcards with key terms related to plastic surgery. In pairs, students take turns picking a card and explaining the term to their partner. Encourage them to use the word in a sentence or provide an example.

Listening Exercise: Case Studies Discussion

Present real-life case studies or testimonials from individuals who have undergone plastic surgery. Have students listen and take notes, then discuss in groups why they think each person decided to have a cosmetic procedure done and its potential impact.

Roleplay: Consultation Scenarios

Organize roleplay scenarios where one student acts as a cosmetic surgeon and another as a patient seeking advice for a procedure. This interactive activity allows students to practice using language appropriate for consultations while considering both medical and personal aspects.

Reading and Writing Task: Debate on Ethics

Assign an article discussing ethical considerations in plastic surgery for homework. In class, facilitate a debate where students share their thoughts in support of or against certain practices, encouraging critical thinking and effective communication.

ESL Homework Assignment

For homework, students are required to research and write a short essay on the cultural perceptions of plastic surgery in different parts of the world. They should explore how these perceptions impact individuals' decisions to undergo cosmetic procedures and discuss any unique cultural attitudes towards beauty and physical appearance. This assignment aims to deepen their understanding of societal influences on plastic surgery while strengthening their writing skills in expressing opinions and conducting research.
