Divide the class into small groups. Prepare slips of paper with names of various destinations around the world. One student from each group selects a slip and has to act out the destination without speaking, while others guess where it is. This activity allows students to practice travel-related vocabulary and encourages teamwork.

Roleplay: Travel Consultation Roleplay

Pair up students as travel agents and clients. The travel agents provide information about different destinations, including attractions, accommodation options, and activities. The clients ask questions and express their preferences for an upcoming trip. This interactive roleplay exercise enhances conversational skills and reinforces vocabulary related to travel.

Reading and Writing: Brochure Creation

In pairs, students select a destination they would like to promote in a brochure. They conduct research on the chosen location and create a persuasive travel brochure including descriptive language, attractive visuals, and compelling details about the destination to engage potential tourists.

Listening Comprehension: Destination Presentations

Assign each student or pair of students a different destination to research. They prepare short presentations highlighting key attractions, local culture, cuisine, and notable landmarks for their peers to listen to. This activity cultivates researching skills while improving listening comprehension as students absorb information about various destinations around the world from their classmates' presentations.

ESL Homework Assignment

For homework, students are tasked with creating their own travel brochure for a destination of their choice.
