ESL Warm-up Activity

To kick off the Days and Months Calendar ESL Lesson Plan, start with an interactive activity called "Calendar Charades." Write down various days of the week and months of the year on separate cards. Ask students to pick a card and act out activities typically associated with that day or month. For example, if a student picks "Friday," they can mime going to the movies or having a party, while "December" could involve pretending to build a snowman or exchange gifts. This activity not only energizes the class but also encourages students to use vocabulary related to days and months in a fun and engaging way.

Main ESL Lesson Activities

Vocabulary Activity: Calendar Bingo

To reinforce vocabulary related to days and months, play a game of Calendar Bingo.

Create bingo cards with a mix of days of the week and months of the year. Call out random days or months, and have students mark the corresponding squares on their bingo cards. This activity encourages active listening and recognition of calendar-related terms.

Listening Exercise: Days and Months Song

Introduce a catchy song that incorporates the days of the week and months of the year. Play the song for the class and provide lyrics for students to follow along. After listening, initiate a discussion about any unfamiliar words or phrases in the song. This activity enhances listening skills while familiarizing students with calendar vocabulary.

Roleplay: Planning an Event

Divide the class into pairs and assign each pair a scenario where they need to plan an event such as a birthday party or a school trip. Students take turns discussing dates, scheduling activities, and making decisions related to days and months. This roleplay activity promotes practical application of calendar vocabulary in real-life situations.

Reading and Writing: Calendar Journal

Ask students to maintain a calendar journal for a week, noting down their daily activities using appropriate vocabulary for days and months. Encourage them to share their journals with a partner or in small groups, fostering reading comprehension and written expression while reinforcing calendar-related terms.

ESL Homework Assignment

For homework, students are tasked with creating a personalized calendar for the upcoming month. They should include important dates, such as birthdays, holidays, or special events, and label each day with the correct date and day of the week. Encouraging creativity and practical application of the lesson content, this assignment reinforces the vocabulary and concepts related to days and months while allowing students to engage with their own schedules.
